The 'Saudi Put' to Fuel a Rebound in Oil Prices: BNEF

Front-month Brent crude prices rebounded to US$64.4/bbl on Wednesday after declining to US$60.8/bbl the previous day. The correction was driven by a recalibration of expectations for the demand recovery, with Covid-19 cases surging in Europe, but the rebound shows the extent to which OPEC+ cuts have underwritten the near-term outlook for crude. (Bloomberg)

Five suburban districts to become inner districts, land price soars

The plan to turn some suburban districts in HCM City into inner districts is only on paper but it has triggered a new land fever in localities. The HCM City Department of Home Affairs has reported to the city's People Committee on the preparation for the plan to convert some suburban districts into inner districts in the 2021-2030 period. The districts include Can Gio, Cu Chi, Binh Chanh, Hoc Mon and Nha Be. Because urbanization among some districts has been going rapidly, the department has proposed changing Hoc Mon, Binh Chanh and Nha Be to inner districts or cities belonging to HCMC in the 2021-2025 period. The change for Cu Chi and Can Gio would occur in the 2025-2030 period. In Hoc Mon, Cu Chi, Binh Chanh and Nha Be, the land price escalates every time news about the district upgrading into inner districts is released. A veteran real estate investor said the land price has been increasing rapidly in the last four years in Binh Chanh. The average land price there has surged from VND28m per square meter in 2018 to VND40m. In Binh Hung communes and localities near HCM City's central area, land is traded at VND90m per square meter. At Trung Son residential quarter, land is offered at VND130m per square meter. At a conference on March 18, HCMC Mayor Nguyen Thanh Phong requested the Department of Home Affairs to report about the plan on converting 5 suburban districts into inner districts again. (Vietnamnet.vn)
